TROLLEY SERVICE BACK AS TOKYO STREETS CLEARED

THIS BOMBED-OUT AREA in the heart of Tokyo near the imperial palace shows the devastating results of American fire-bombing attacks. Each section of the city is responsible for clearing away its own debris and citizens have been ordered to aid in the work. ## Typhoon Strikes Tokyo, Interrupting Operations Of Occupation Forces

TOKYO, Sept. 18—A typhoon struck Tokyo today, interrupting occupation operations and wrecking makeshift homes of hundreds of air raid victims.

All military and naval planes were grounded and small-boat communications between American naval vessels in Tokyo bay and the shore were halted temporarily.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, meantime, revealed that occupation forces have spread out over an 800-mile stretch of the Japanese homeland, with 65,000 or more troops concentrated within a 30-mile radius of Tokyo.

At the southwestern end of the American occupation arc, an advanced echelon from the Fifth amphibious corps and the Fifth Marine division was revealed to have entered Sasebo, big Japanese naval base in the northwest corner of Kyushu.

The remainder of the corps and the Fifth division will occupy Sasebo and atomic-bombed Nagasaki, 35 miles to the south, next Saturday. The second Marine and 32nd infantry divisions will land in the Sasebo-Nagasaki area later.

Four infantry divisions and two regiments are stationed in the greater Tokyo area. They are the First cavalry, the 27th, the 43rd and the Americal divisions, the fourth Marine regiment and the 12th regimental combat team.

The 11th air-borne division, which spearheaded the air-borne landings in Japan, has moved from Atsugi airfield to the Sendai-Fukushima area, 200 miles north of Tokyo. Fourteen corps headquarters is in the process of moving to the same sector.

MacArthur's headquarters also authorized the Japanese to fly limited air courier and liaison transport service totalling 14 round trips weekly on four routes, all out of Tokyo.

The permission stipulated that no more than four planes be airborne at any one time and that any flight delayed 15 minutes beyond the scheduled takeoff time be cancelled. Planes must be painted white with green crosses.

Russia Backs Slav Claims

Molotov Defends Soviet Policy In Balkans; Explains Attitude

LONDON, Sept. 18—Russian Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov vigorously defended Soviet policy in the Balkans today and advocated that the Italian colonies be placed under one-nation trusteeship.

Molotov held a press conference at which he clarified to a varying extent the Russian attitude on many issues facing the five-power council of foreign ministers in session here.

Molotov indicated complete Soviet support of Yugoslavia's claims against Italy. The Yugoslavs are claiming sovereignty over Trieste and all of the Istria and Venezia Giulia provinces of northeastern Italy.

The Soviet foreign commissar said the delegation he heads regarded it as a duty to keep a fair attitude toward the Yugoslav-Italian situation. It believes, he said, that those territories which are Croat or Slovene in character should go to the Croats and Slovenes, while those Italian in character should be kept by Italy.

The status of the Dodecanese islands is under discussion by the foreign ministers, Molotov said. The strategic group of islands in the Mediterranean off Greece and Turkey were Italian before the war.

There has been considerable unofficial speculation in some circles following the conference that Russia might seek the Dodecanese group as the foundation for a foothold in the Mediterranean.

MARINE ACE RESTS BEFORE BEING HONORED

SEATTLE, Sept. 18—Lt. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, 32-year-old Marine fighter ace, today began a two-week rest before flying to Washington, D. C., to receive the Congressional Medal of honor he was awarded while a prisoner of the Japanese.

A crowd of more than 1,000 lined the edge of Boeing Field, where Boyington used to work, to watch his arrival aboard a United Airlines plane yesterday. He was then driven through Seattle streets to Victory Square where a public reception was held in his honor.

Boyington will remain here until tomorrow night when he will go to Okanogan, Wash., where he will visit his family until Oct. 2.

31 PRISONERS NEAR NAGASAKI KILLED BY BOMB

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18—The second atomic bomb dropped on Japan burned 31 Allied war prisoners to death in a prison compound at Nagasaki, radio Melbourne said today.

Altogether, 211 British, Dutch and Australian prisoners were in the compound when the bomb exploded a half mile away.

"I had time to run two or three yards and crouch beside a wall before the building collapsed in a heap of rubble and twisted iron," he said.

"That was accompanied by a blinding flash of yellow light which scorched paint off buildings, tore foliage from trees and killed everyone who had not taken cover.

"Every bit of steel and every building in the devastated area, which was about four miles long and one mile wide, seemed to fold up in a flash."

MAY HEAD UNIFIED POST

Service Units Reported To Favor Him For Head Of National Defense

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Some persons here believed today that there was more than met the eye in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Pacific demobilization bombshell.

The war department hasn't been more surprised since Pearl Harbor. The general said right out of the blue that it may be possible to reduce American forces in Japan to not more than 200,000 men after six months.

Less than 24 hours previously Maj. Gen. I. H. Edwards, assistant chief of staff, had estimated a force of 900,000 for the entire Pacific theater.

MacArthur's estimate sharply curtails that and all previous figures on Pacific needs. In defense of the war department, it is explained that its earlier Pacific estimates were made on the basis of MacArthur's own previous estimates.

In another interview, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Japan's present and six times past navy minister, said the attack on Pearl Harbor represented the maximum effort of which the Japanese navy felt capable.

Yonai said he never had heard of any definite Japanese plan to invade either Hawaii or the United States although "the desire may have been there." He speculated that this may have accounted for Japan's failure to follow through after the success of the sneak attack.

Togo cited the dispatch of Kurusu to Washington in November 1941 as a sign of Japan's "sincere desire to bring about a rapid consummation of negotiations then under way."

"I wasn't at all informed of the project of the attack upon Pearl Harbor," Togo said. "This holds true with Mr. Kurusu."

Asked whether Japan had offered a compromise proposal as a means of saving the peace, Togo said:

"Actuated by a sincere desire to find a way out of the impasse, we modified our proposal of Sept. 6 in spite of great difficulties on our part and offered it to the United States government toward the middle of November."

"As the negotiations protracted, the atmosphere in both countries grew tense, so we put forward a modus vivendi as a basis of the North Pacific Fleet.

1,500 PRISONERS TAKEN BY AIR FROM HOKKAIDO

OMINATO, Sept. 18—Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the North Pacific Fleet, was advised today that all Allied prisoners of war numbering some 1,500 have been evacuated from camps on Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

The Army moved hundreds of planes inland from New York and New England airfields. The Army air transport command ordered trans-Atlantic planes to land at Pittsburgh and other inland airports instead of La Guardia field.

LAUSCHE URGES ADOPTION OF UNIFORM TIME

COLUMBUS, Sept. 18—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today urged Ohio municipalities to return to slow time when Congress adopts a slow-time resolution.

He also expressed hope that Ohio cities would eliminate confusion next Spring by remaining on slow time.

"From my personal experience it would be a mistake to have fast time again adopted in various places throughout the state next Spring," Lausche said.

The governor also hoped that the Mayors' Association would "make a specific effort to adopt a uniform time for all Ohio cities."

JAP FORCES IN CHINA ARE ORDERED DISMISSED

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18—Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, commander of Chinese forces, today ordered the immediate abolition of the Japanese expeditionary forces in China.

He appointed Gen. Yasuji Okamura, the Japanese commander, chief of rehabilitation headquarters for Japanese troops in the China theatre. As such, Okamura will take orders from Ho.

Two Circleville soldiers who went through the war in the Pacific together put on civilian clothes at the same time Tuesday. William Kellstadt, son of Milt Kellstadt, North Court street, and Ned Plum, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Plum, North Court street, left Circleville with the National Guard four years ago.

"I had time to run two or three yards and crouch beside a wall before the building collapsed in a heap of rubble and twisted iron," he said.

They had considerable trouble keeping together at times but somehow managed it, despite the usual Army procedure which separates relatives and friends.

Plum and Kellstadt were attached to a tank destroyer outfit and served part of the time with Ohio's 37th division. They participated in the battle of the Philippines and were with the 37th during the Solomons campaign.

They reported at Camp Shelby together and took training together. They shipped out with the same outfit and spent 40 months in the Pacific. They recall that

HOPE DIMMING FOR EARLY END OF RATIONING

600,000,000 Pounds Of Meat To Be Exported During Last Quarter

BRITAIN TO GET HALF

Points Probably Will Stay On While U. S. Meat Is Sent To Europe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Hope for an early end to meat rationing dimmed today as the government prepared to export up to 600,000,000 pounds during October, November and December.

President Truman reported that 150,000,000 pounds of meat definitely have been earmarked for the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration and paying European governments.

Agriculture department sources revealed that another 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 pounds will go to Great Britain once financial arrangements replacing lend-lease have been completed.

More For UNRRA

In addition, UNRRA is scheduled to get still more meat when and if Congress approves the $550,000,000 appropriation now pending. The agency requested 400,000,000 pounds of meat for the fourth quarter, but officials said its actual quota will not reach that figure.

Exports of this size would not leave a civilian supply large enough to meet an unrationed demand, officials indicated. However, it was apparent that a much-liberalized meat rationing program will go into effect Sept. 30. Relatively high red point values are likely to remain only for pork and top-grade beef cuts.

Contradiction Seen

An apparent contradiction on the "why" of continued meat rationing arose between Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and President Truman.

Anderson told reporters yesterday after a White House conference that the duration of meat rationing was dependent upon how much was sent to feed Europe.

A few hours later, the President in statement on relief feeding said, "it should be made perfectly clear that, contrary to the belief of many, relaxation of rationing on the home front is not a factor in the allocation of relief supplies to Europe."

Suffering Expected

The President said fourth-quarter food shipments, including meat, will be as large as possible pending an ironing out of financial difficulties, but will not prevent widespread suffering in Europe this winter.

Virtually no U. S. meat has gone abroad since July 1 when the civilian rationing system was threatened with a breakdown because of low supplies and spotty distribution.

It would be a mistake to have fast time again adopted in various places throughout the state next Spring," Lausche said.

"From my personal experience

OFFICIALS WILL TRY TO SETTLE AUTO TROUBLES

Details Of Action Planned Held Up Pending Labor Setup Reorganization

CIO unions outside the automobile industry also have demanded 20 per cent wage increases.

And across the nation, 215,000 workers were idle because of labor disputes stemming from a variety of grievances.

Others Off Jobs

Aside from the issue over wages with the big three, Detroit was plagued by labor troubles. About 84,000 workers were idle at 75 plants.

The city's gasoline supply was cut 75 per cent by a strike of 500 employees of the Socony-Vacuum oil company refinery at Trenton, Mich. The strikers were members of the oil workers union (CIO). Their walkout was part of a campaign to gain a 30 per cent wage increase for oil workers.

Oil workers in six midwestern states were alerted for strike action today as walkouts and shutdowns, affecting 215,000 workers, continued throughout the country.

It put in force, union leaders said, the strike might curtail refining operations of seven major oil companies in Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin and Kentucky.

Ford Plants Closed

The Ford Motor company, threatened by the UAW with a strike over wages, already was shut down. The company suspended production of 1946 passenger cars because of a shortage of parts normally supplied by the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company. Fifty-thousand Ford workers were idle. Kelsey-Hayes was closed by a strike of 4,500 UAW members who protested the firing of 12 union stewards.

Production of Hudson Motor cars also was shut off by a strike. The walkout of 500 foremen three weeks ago continued to keep 6,000 other Hudson workers idle.

To Ask For Votes

At a meeting of the UAW executive board at Flint, Mich., R. J. Thomas, union president, said the union planned to ask the national labor relations board to provide for strike votes in 100 automobile plants.

He insisted, however, that the union was not anxious to strike against the automobile industry.

All other strike-idle workers in Detroit were employed in the automobile industry except for 900 pattern makers.

Even while marshaling their forces for wage campaigns against the auto factories, the auto workers were faced with dissension in their own ranks.

The UAW international board took over the Kelsey-Hayes local and considered the month-long strike ended. But the union members defied their leaders and refused to return to work.

NEW BILL GIVES STATES CONTROL OF JOBLESS PAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — The senate begins debate on a modified unemployment compensation bill today with administration backers set for a floor fight to reinstate $25-a-week uniform federal standards.

The administration's original compensation plan, calling for maximum unemployment benefits of $25 a week for 26 weeks, was turned down by the senate finance committee. It approved instead a "state's rights" measure that would provide federal aid to extend the duration of state's benefits by 60 per cent when requested by the individual states.

Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va., author of the original bill, believed there was a fighting chance to save it. He told reporters that the senate stood about 40-40 on his bill and that the "answer lies with the undecided 20 per cent."

PREMIER CLAIMS HIROHITO WAS DECEIVED IN '41

TOKYO, Sept. 18 — Premier Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni said today he believed Emperor Hirohito was "deceived" by Japanese militarists during the climactic period immediately preceding the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Higashi-Kuni, under questioning by more than 50 Allied correspondents, said he hoped to create a commission to investigate responsibility for the war.

He insisted that he did not know whether the emperor was aware that the attack on Pearl Harbor had been planned, or whether he was aware of atrocities committed by the Japanese.

RUSSIA BACKS SLAV CLAIMS

(Continued from Page One) the governments of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary. He said there are some governments ripe for a change, but those of the Balkan states are not among them.

The Soviet attitude in Eritrea, the Italian colony in east Africa, is under discussion. Molotov said adding that the Soviets have an interest in the matter.

In presenting her claims for Trieste to the council today, Molotov said, Yugoslavia offered to make the key Adriatic port a federated state inside Yugoslavia.

A new issue was injected into the conference today when the Armenian Socialist party asked the big five to call upon Turkey to renounce in favor of Soviet Armenia "all rights and title over territories assigned to Armenia by President Wilson."

HUNGRY JAPS HUNTING FISH, PRAY FOR FOOD

TOKYO, Sept. 18 — Thousands of Tokyo's remaining 2,000,000 inhabitants swarmed across the city's coastal mud flats today, searching for enough shell fish to provide another meal.

The cry is for food. Self-survival is the only thought for these hungry Japanese.

As far as the eye can see, countless thousands of men, women and children tirelessly splash through the shallow water. Each pays approximately five cents to the man holding the government shell-fishing concession. For that they are entitled to all they can catch in a day—usually a water bucket full per person.

This is a scene repeated day after day. Thousands of others line the city's canals and rivers, creating a forest of bamboo fishing poles from dawn to dusk as Tokyo's populace desperately tries to increase its food supply.

Hunger is evident everywhere. War gardens in small, neat typically Japanese fashion dot every available area of land. The average man prays that his garden will supply enough food to stave off starvation one more winter—a hope against odds that "something" will be done by the Japanese or American governments to keep food in the mouths of those still dwelling in this city of dismal makeshift homes.

YANKEES SEEK NAZI CRIMINALS IN JAP VILLAGE

ASHINOUYU VILLAGE, JAPAN, Sept. 18 — American authorities today began questioning over 3,000 Germans living in this attractive Oriental Berchtesgaden in an attempt to run down persistent rumors that Hitler is hiding in the area.

It also was considered possible that other Nazi war criminals could have accompanied the führer in a last-minute sneak by submarine to Japan.

Many Tokyo Japanese whisper that shortly after Germany's collapse a Nazi submarine arrived at Yokosuka naval base on lower Tokyo bay and deposited Hitler, who was immediately whisked up a back-country road into this cloud enshrouded mountain hide-out.

There are no concrete facts to support this story, but the Japanese point out that their nation was the only one left in the world which was still committed by treaty to the Germans. They also insist that such a submarine trip would have been extremely easy.

It is definitely known that Germany and Japan, throughout the war, have exchanged liaison officers and limited quantities of precious war supplies by submarine.

SHIRLEY GETS CONSENT

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18 — Shirley Temple, 17, and Air Forces Sgt. John G. Agar, 24, today had parental consent to get married. They plan to wed to-morrow night.

OBSERVERS SEE NEW POST FOR ALLIED LEADER

Political Significance Is Read Into Announcement Of Army Reduction

If the war department could have been the bearer of good news from the Pacific, the defense of its policies might have been somewhat eased. More likely now is that the department will be further criticized for seeking to hold in foreign theaters more men than generals on the spot require.

Gains Popularity

To some extent, therefore, MacArthur appears to be publicly aligned, knowingly or not, on the popular side of the argument about demobilization speed-up. If that doesn't send his personal popularity soaring even higher in the United States, then nothing could. It will rally congress to whom it up a bit for MacArthur, too.

All of this is interesting in connection with indications that MacArthur—or some of his very close associates—believe he would be a good selection to head the proposed consolidated department of national defense. In such capacity he would be a cabinet member. He would have to resign, not retire, from the Army, however.

The consolidation, if it ever takes place, will specify that the secretary shall be a civilian.

United Press Staff Correspondent James C. McGlinny reported on Sept. 5 from Yokohama that plans for a single department of national defense were in the hands of the joint chiefs of staff here and that the Army Air Forces are ready to back Gen. Douglas MacArthur for first secretary of national defense if he wants the job.

Eisenhower Boomed

It was learned here subsequently that MacArthur apparently had some interest in such a spot. McGlinny's story also reported that many Army sources considered Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the logical choice for supreme commander of the armed forces under a consolidated establishment.

There may be developing now considerable service support for a MacArthur-Eisenhower team to military plans, establishment and military plans, establishment and overall national defense. Simultaneously there are recurrent dispatches from the European theater of operations somewhat along that line. The United Press reported yesterday from Frankfurt, Germany, that "reasonable sources predicted today that Gen. Eisenhower would become U. S. Army chief of staff." Marshall's retirement as chief of staff in any event, is expected shortly, as is Henry L. Stimson as secretary of war.

As far as the eye can see, countless thousands of men, women and children tirelessly splash through the shallow water. Each pays approximately five cents to the man holding the government shell-fishing concession. For that they are entitled to all they can catch in a day—usually a water bucket full per person.

A spokesman in the attorney general's office said that according to his interpretation it would be necessary for the state legislature to revise the law before workers in Ohio could receive supplementary unemployment compensation from the federal government.

Meanwhile another telegram to the governor, from Harvey W. Brown, president of the international association of machinists, urged Lausche to review the state law a second time.

Brown said that about 14 states, with the same provision in their unemployment insurance law as Ohio, have told George that their workers legally could receive additional payments from the U. S. government.

It is no reflection on either MacArthur or Eisenhower to remark that these reports originate in or near the area of their headquarters. It is reasonable to assume, also, that these reports originate with men with whom MacArthur and Eisenhower are associated closely. The generals doubtless could guess, if they do not know, that they are being boomed for higher responsibilities.

OFFICIALS WILL TRY TO SETTLE AUTO TROUBLES

Details Of Action Planned
Held Up Pending Labor
Setup Reorganization

held at near the wartime level in spite of reduced working hours.

CIO unions outside the automobile industry also have demanded 20 per cent wage increases.

And across the nation, 215,000 workers were idle because of labor disputes stemming from a variety of grievances.

Others Off Jobs

Aside from the issue over wages with the big three, Detroit was plagued by labor troubles. About 84,000 workers were idle at 75 plants.

The city's gasoline supply was cut 75 per cent by a strike of 500 employees of the Socony-Vacuum oil company refinery at Trenton, Mich. The strikers were members of the oil workers union (CIO).
Their walkout was part of a campaign to gain a 30 per cent wage increase for oil workers.

Oil workers in six midwestern states were alerted for strike action today as walkouts and shutdowns, affecting 215,000 workers, continued throughout the country.

If put in force, union leaders said, the strike might curtail refining operations of seven major oil companies in Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Wisconsin and Kentucky.

Ford Plants Closed

The Ford Motor company, threatened by the UAW with a strike over wages, already was shut down. The company suspended production of 1946 passenger cars because of a shortage of parts normally supplied by the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company. Fiftythousand Ford workers were idle.
Kelsey-Hayes was closed by a strike of 4,500 UAW members who protested the firing of 12 union workers.

Production of Hudson Motor cars also was shut off by strike.
The walkout of 500 foremen three weeks ago continued to keep 6,000 other Hudson workers idle.

To Ask For Votes

At a meeting of the UAW executive board at Flint, Mich., R. J.
Thomas, union president, said the union planned to ask the national labor relations board to provide for strike votes in 100 automobile plants.

He insisted, however, that the union was not anxious to strike against the automobile industry.

All other strike-idle workers in Detroit were employed in the automobile industry except for 900 pattern makers.

Even while marshaling their forces for wage campaigns against the auto factories, the auto workers were faced with dissension in their own ranks.

The UAW international board took over the Kelsey-Hayes local and considered the month-long strike ended. But the union members defied their leaders and refused to return to work.

NEW BILL GIVES STATES CONTROL OF JOBLESS PAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — The Senate begins debate on a modified unemployment compensation bill today with administration backers set for a floor fight to reinstate $25-a-week uniform federal standards.

The administration's original compensation plan, calling for maximum unemployment benefits of $25 a week for 26 weeks, was turned down by the Senate Finance Committee. It approved instead a "state's rights" measure that would provide federal aid to extend the duration of state's benefits by 60 per cent when requested by the individual states.

Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va., author of the original bill, believed there was a fighting chance to save it. He told reporters that the Senate stood about 40-40 on his bill and that the "answer lies with the undecided 20 per cent."

PREMIER CLAIMS HIROHITO WAS DECEIVED IN '41

TOKYO, Sept. 18 — Premier Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni said today he believed Emperor Hirohito was "deceived" by Japanese militarists during the climactic period immediately preceding the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Higashi-Kuni, under questioning by more than 50 Allied correspondents, said he hoped to create a commission to investigate responsibility for the war.

He insisted that he did not know whether the emperor was aware that the attack on Pearl Harbor had been planned, or whether he was aware of atrocities committed by the Japanese.

commanded the Ofuna prison camp, sixteen miles from Yokohama and reported to be one of the worst placing Allied prisoners in solitary confinement and for neglecting the sick and wounded. (International)

the governments of Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary. He said there are some governments ripe for a change, but those of the Balkan states are not among them.

The Soviet attitude on Eritrea,
the Italian colony in east Africa, is under discussion. Molotov said, adding that the Soviets have an interest in the matter.

In presenting her claims for Trieste to the council today, Molotov said, Yugoslavia offered to make the key Adriatic port a federated state inside Yugoslavia.

A new issue was injected into the conference today when the Armenian Socialist party asked the big five to call upon Turkey to renounce in favor of Soviet Armenia "all rights and title over territories assigned to Armenia by President Wilson."

HUNGRY JAPS HUNTING FISH, PRAY FOR FOOD

benefits to jobless workers up to a maximum of $25 for 26 weeks.
The state would pay $21 a week for 22 weeks.

The bill also provided an alternative plan for states which had no authority to enter into such an agreement with the federal government. In such cases the government would make the supplementary payments directly to the unemployed workers.

The cry is for food. Self-survival is the only thought for these hungry Japanese.

As far as the eye can see, countless thousands of men, women and children tirelessly splash through the shallow water. Each pays approximately five cents to the man fishing concession. For that they are entitled to all they can catch in a day—usually a water bucket ful per person.

This is a scene repeated day after day. Thousands of others line the city's canals and rivers, creating a forest of bamboo fishing poles from dawn to dusk as Tokyo's populace desperately tries to increase its food supply.

Hunger is evident everywhere.

War gardens in small, neat typically Japanese fashion dot every available area of land. The average man prays that his garden will supply enough food to stall off starvation one more winter—a hope against odds that "something" will be done by the Japanese or American governments to keep food in the mouths of those still dwelling in this city of dismal makeshift homes.

YANKEES SEEK NAZI CRIMINALS IN JAP VILLAGE

ASHINOYU VILLAGE, JAPAN, Sept. 18 — American authorities

today began questioning over 3,000

Germans living in this attractive

Oriental Berchesgaden in an attempt to run down persistent rumors that Hitler is hiding in the area.

It also was considered possible that other Nazi war criminals could have accompanied the fuehrer in a last-minute sneak by submarine to Japan.

Many Tokyo Japanese whisper that shortly after Germany's collapse a Nazi submarine arrived at Yokosuka naval base on lower

Tokyo bay and deposited Hitler, who was immediately whisked up a back-country road into this cloud enshrouded mountain hide-out.

There are no concrete facts to support this story, but the Japanese point out that their nation was the only one left in the world which was still committed by treaty to the Germans. They also insist that such a submarine trip would have been extremely easy.

It is definitely known that Germany and Japan, throughout the war, have exchanged liaison officials and limited quantities of precious war supplies by submarine.

OBSERVERS SEE NEW POST FOR ALLIED LEADER

Political Significance Is Read Into Announcement
Of Army Reduction

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, has made a date to discuss demobilization Thursday with house and senate members.

If the war department could have been the bearer of good news from the Pacific, the defense of its policies might have been somewhat eased. More likely now is that the department will be further criticized for seeking to hold in foreign theaters more men than generals on the spot require.

Gains Popularity

To some extent, therefore, Mac-Arthur appears to be publicly aligned, knowingly or not, on the popular side of the argument about demobilization speed-up. If that doesn't send his personal popularity soaring even higher in the United States, then nothing could.
It will rally congress to whom it will be a good selection to head the proposed consolidated department of national defense. In such capacity he would be a cabinet member.
He would have to resign, not retire, from the Army, however.

All of this is interesting in connection with indications that a MacArthur—or some of his very close associates—believe he would be a good selection to head the proposed consolidated department
of national defense. In such capacity he would be a cabinet member.
He would have to resign, not
retire, from the Army, however.

United Press Staff Correspondent
James C. McGlinny reported on Sept. 5 from Yokohama that plans for a single department of national defense were in the hands of the joint chiefs of staff here and that the Army Air Forces are ready to back Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur for first secretary of national defense if he wants the secretary shall be a civilian.

Togo said he was invited by Premier Kantaro Suzuki last April 9 to join his government as foreign minister.

"I obtained his plighted word regarding the termination at the earliest opportunity of hostilities," Togo said. "Since then, I, as foreign minister, concentrated my efforts to attain the desired end."

Togo resigned with the rest of the Suzuki government after the decision was made to surrender.

Yonai told the United Press that a fuel shortage prevented the Japanese navy from challenging in strength the American march toward her homeland with the single exception of the battle of the Philippines.

The reorganization was expected to strengthen greatly the conciliation service of the department, giving it many of the functions of the War Labor Board; transfer to the department of the U. S. Employment Service, now under the War Manpower Commission; and give Schwellenbach at least administrative authority over the national labor relations board.

HIDDEN TUBERCULOSIS

THE state of Ohio has begun a belated search among its mental hospitals for hidden cases of tuberculosis. It expects to find anywhere from 900 to 5,000 cases among the 28,000 patients and the 3,000 employees.

Dr. Mark Garry of the State Health department says previous surveys have indicated that the 1.5 per cent of persons X-rayed showing the disease can usually be multiplied from two to 10 times in the rates found in mental institutions.

One reason for this is the lack of enough skilled attendants. Of the 3,000 employees many will be cooks, gardeners, furnace men and other service employees. Of the attendants most will be found to be untrained, unskilled—more like jailers than the trained nurses and orderlies so badly needed to give these unfortunate persons anything faintly resembling hospital care.

Whether the state of Ohio, when it finds out about its tuberculous mentally ill people, will rise to give them proper care, is anybody's guess. But an aroused public opinion in that and other states might prevent the run-around such patients so often get. The mental institutions cannot take them because they have no provision for isolating those with TB. The TB hospitals cannot take them because they have mental quirks. The jail won't take them and the city hospitals cannot. Too often they land in obscure private sanitariums where their families can scarcely afford to keep them, and where they die miserably after infecting other patients or employees.

It does seem as if something decent and reasonable could be done.

Ownership of 55 per cent of private property in Great Britain is held by only one per cent of the adult population over 25 years old, according to the International Federation of Trade Unions, which has its headquarters in London.

This may be one reason for the overwhelming Labor victory in the recent British election.

WASHINGTON Report

Role of Hero's Wife

Mrs. Kitty Wainwright

Plays Part Beautifully

By HELEN ESSARY

Central Press Columnist

• WASHINGTON—Whenever I meet or hear about a Hero, I wonder if being the wife of a Hero isn't harder than being the Hero.

In order to be a successful wife of a Hero, a woman must see the Fine Fellow as the Greatest Man alive. She must sit at his feet and at the same time "protect" him as if he were an infant and not yet out of swaddling clothes. She must remember only his most admirable qualities and his more magnificent moments. And while the multitudes cheer her husband's triumphs, she must forget those occasions upon which he happened to leave the ignition switch on and thus ran the family automobile battery down for three days in a row; or when he loses his temper when matches fail to light. These—plus a thousand little eccentricities.

In addition to other qualifications for the role of a Hero's wife, the Happy Little Woman must wear just the right clothes when on view in public. She must have the right kind of profile for the cameras. Mansge to keep fresh the "welcome home" orchids, presented by some reception committee, despite torrid heat or drizzle. And, worst of all, manage to look pretty for the picture page and its larger-than-life-size shot bearing some such caption as: "Greeted by Wife With Loving Kiss."

Mrs. Jonathan Wainwright, Kitty for short, is a most satisfactory Hero's Wife. She really was a darling at her husband's press meetings. She's very pretty. She did wear the right clothes—though I could have wished for a hat smaller than her black straw hat. It drooped and hid her attractive face. Her black and blue

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Conditions were so crowded backstage at Carnegie Hall that three ghosts in regular residence there moved across the street into a hotel that was merely filled to capacity. Out of what seemed like a hopeless tangle of high priced talent came that well-paced radio program you heard over the Columbia broadcasting system's network advertising its wares.

There must have been some 250 persons onstage and backstage during more than half of the hour-and-a-half proceedings. It was only in the latter part when some of the performers cleared out after doing their stints that matters improved.

Among the radio great who sat in a row of chairs just offstage waiting for a chance to perform were Helen Hayes, Phil Baker, James Melton, Claudia Morgan, Tom Howard, Earl Wrightson and Patrice Munsell. Miss Hayes was busy knitting a yellow turtleneck sweater.

It developed that the sweater is for her daughter, Mary, who is attending a Connecticut girls school "where they are trying to make the girls become young ladies and they want them covered all over." Miss Hayes said she had to knit the sweater because she hasn't been able to buy one that offers such complete coverage as a turtleneck.

Neither Miss Hayes nor her playwright husband, Charles MacArthur, is doing anything about directing Mary's steps toward the theater.

"But she'll probably wind up there somehow," the actress concluded.

The only performer to wear an evening gown was Bess Myerson, the brand new "Miss America," who obliged on the flute during the broadcast. The dress was green except around the bottom where it had been sweeping the floor.

Tenor James Melton congratulated Wrightson after the latter's singing chore, saying there was no doubt he was the best baritone in the house. Melton, who was kidding around with some of the pretty young things backstage, was asked if they weren't a bit out of his line since he is known to favor antiques.

"I only go for antiques when they're automobiles," he said, "Besides I'm only kidding; I'm married."

Tom Howard, looking as he usually does when he presides over "It Pays To Be Ignorant," reprimanded a young woman who expressed admiration for the "cuteness" of Melton's nose with the remark that personally he had always considered the singer's proboscis nothing but an overgrown pimple.

Phil Baker and Harry McNaughton, who used to be the character "bottle" on Baker's program of a decade ago, got to reminiscing about those old days and went into one of their old routines for their own amusement. McNaughton, who works on Howard's program now, is known as "The Scarf" because that's what he always wears instead of a tie.

The worst crowding was in a makeshift control room, made for four people. When the program ended, 13 people stumbled out of it, feeling their way through a dense cloud of cigaret smoke. One of them was the program's producer, Norman Corwin, who said he was going to take a vacation—quick. He had been writing or rehearsing steadily for 24 hours and hadn't eaten in that time.

Getting to and from the microphones onstage occasionally presented quite a traffic

silk frock was smartly cut. Her pearl earrings were good. And her orchid hadn't as much as one brown spot on its violet leaves. She looked completely a lady and yet not too aloof for cheerful company.

When Mrs. Wainwright took her place at the right of her husband and faced several hundred curious reporters, taking notes violently, she was modest and composed. When her husband spoke affectionately of her, her manner was charming.

"My first great happiness on arriving home was seeing my beloved wife from whom I have been separated for four and a half years," said the man who had lived through horror and torture in a Japanese prison camp. Kitty Wainwright drooped her head. Perhaps she wore that large hat on purpose. But you could see the muscles of her neck twist as she gulped down her emotion. Then she reached into her purse. For a handkerchief, probably, to wipe the tears from her eyes. Then thought better of making a display of emotion. Closed the purse quickly. Swallowed hard and sat with hands clenched while the hero of Corregidor related a few of his experiences.

The general talks with both humility and pride of his share in the war. If he did feel any bitterness over his experience neither his manner nor tone showed resentment.

The Young Aeneas had an uneventful trek on his way back from Troy when compared with the World War II adventures of Jonathan Wainwright. I wonder if the general acquired that snappy bright uniform he has been wearing. The general's uniform seems a trifle large. But then the general is more than a trifle thin now. Thinner by many pounds than he was when he won the nickname "Skinny." The last one of his four stars drops down over the edge of his narrow shoulders. But his voice is strong and he holds his head high.

He is a nice change from some of the more bumptious heroes we have met lately. Heroes shouldn't look too well fed and too pleased with themselves. Not battle heroes whose triumphs have been made possible by the death and general torment of thousands of less lucky fighting men.

Skiny Wainwright is just my kind of war hero. No wonder Kitty was glad to have him come home.

DIET AND HEALTH

An Intestinal Disturbance That Comes from Nerves

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

EVERY time there is a disturbance of the intestinal action, it does not necessarily mean that actual disease of the bowel is present, for often the bowel is just functioning or working in the wrong way. This condition is known as the irritable bowel syndrome.

According to Doctors Gustavus A. Peters and J. Arnold Borgen of Rochester, Minnesota, the underlying cause for the irritable bowel is a disorder of the nervous system. They think that this type of disturbance tends to run in families. Not only the large intestine, but the entire gastro-intestinal tract is affected, and is usually irritated or upset.

Circulatory Disturbance

In patients with irritable bowel syndrome, there are often signs of circulatory disturbances also, such as excessive sweating of the hands, cold, clammy hands, rapid beating of the heart, low blood pressure, and numbness and tingling in various parts of the body.

Nervous fatigue helps to explain the occurrence of the irritable bowel syndrome, but other factors also enter into it, such as the abuse of laxative drugs, the too frequent use of enemas or injections into the lower bowel, certain foods to which the patient may be oversensitive, or lack of the normal digestive juices in the stomach.

Many Complaints

Patients with the irritable bowel syndrome, there are many complaints. They often find that they feel sick all over, or that they have stomach trouble, or are bilious. What all of these symptoms may amount to is that the patient is suffering from constipation, and has some pain or discomfort within the abdomen. He is usually tired and exhausted and has no energy or ambition.

Sometimes the pain in the abdomen is in the upper part, but more often in the lower end on the left side. There is constipation, often alternating with diarrhea. Frequently there are excessive amounts of mucus in the bowel movements. There may be belching, excessive gas formation and gurgling within the intestines.

Pain Relieved

The abdominal pain is often relieved when the bowels move. The pain is rarely severe enough to keep the patient awake at night.

The most important part of the treatment of the irritable bowel is to dispel or quiet the patient's fears. The exact nature of the disorder must be explained to him. Then he must be given proper advice concerning diet, exercise, and rest.

The diet will, of course, vary with the symptoms present, and it is important that the patient take plenty of fluids, eat at regular times and, as a rule, avoid foods which are highly seasoned and too bulky. Certain drugs which quiet the nervous system, such as phenobarbital, may be prescribed by the doctor.

It is not necessary for you to give Skeeter anything." Gordon Adams was stern and unfriendly again. That arrogant stiffness, that she had noticed the first day, now had control of his head.

Sandra's voice was sharp. "I'm perfectly aware of that. But I tell you I WANT to give her something. I'd planned on it before I ever met you. Spenser learned from Estelle that she was to have a birthday soon. He also wants to buy her a gift."

Her gentle lie, compared to the memory of Spenser's demanding just why they had to give Belinda a present, brought another smile to her topaz-tinted lips. It did not go away. Somehow she just felt like smiling today. Not even Gordon Adams' curt manner could keep her from it.

Copper Creek's Main street did not seem the same one she had abhorred the rainy day of her arrival. In the glaring sunshine it was colorful and western, not dinky and drab. There was much activity. Pedestrians stepped from the narrow

SYNOPSIS
SANDRA EDWARD is an attractive, red-headed girl designer who volunteers to take 11-year-old SPENSER WITTINGTON, an English boy who was bombed out of his home, to live with her on a dude ranch in Arizona until he can return home. BELINDA ADAMS is the unhappy 12-year-old daughter of GORDON ADAMS, handsome owner of Mesquite Ranch.

SPENDER attempts to make an impression on Gordon Adams wearing one of her mother's dinner dress; but she fails in her attempt and doesn't see him again for three days. Adams finally asks her to accompany him to the city, however, to help him buy a birthday gift for Belinda.

Everyone seems to know you," she said, when they reached the end of the town and the man beside her no longer was occupied receiving and returning jubilant greetings.

"They should. I've lived here long enough." He trod heavily on the accelerator and the station wagon jumped forward. "But I don't think that's what you mean. You had a startled fawn look written all over you. I think what really surprised you was seeing that the town likes me. I'm sure you had me pegged as a social outcast."

Because it was so near the truth, Sandra denied it hotly. "I thought nothing of the kind!"

She turned her head and stared out her window. The curving highway was leading them past a river, a riverbed actually, for there was no water in it. In fact, horses and their riders were making a bridge of it.

"I'm hoping," she continued, "that this separation will make him miss me. But I don't know. It seems he doesn't miss his own mother and father. Of course, his mother is dead. A child may be better off if they can develop a lack of concern in such a situation. But his father—it seems he should miss his father. But he doesn't even mention him."

"He misses him," stated Gordon Adams. "He misses him and you haven't sense enough to know it."

"You should be so smart about your own child," the red-haired girl said furiously.

Gordon Adams did not answer.

La Madera surprised Sandra. Funny, she mused, as they drove along prosperous business streets, how a person could sit in one city, engrossed in affairs that made up her own little world, and know nothing of the rest of it.

"I'm hoping," she continued, "that this separation will make him miss me. But I thought nothing of the kind!"

"You'll see water in it, if you stay until spring. I own here we have flowers and sunshine in the winter, but up north in the pine forests there is plenty of snow. When it melts—whammo! We get in flood waters. Of course, he taunted, "you won't be here in the spring, if Spenser takes a notion to leave."

"Let's not get started on that again. Anyway, I imagine your happiest moment is when you see the last guest leaving your place."

Looking backward now upon that dreary period, it seems impossible that our nation should have gone through such a deprivation and lived to carry on.

For the American is, of all nations and breeds, the most fraternizing and social-minded, whether in secret or public groups, and it is almost a miracle that he has got along during this recent sterile and unsocial period without perishing.

Ownership of 55 per cent of private property in Great Britain is held by only one per cent of the adult population over 25 years old, according to the International Federation of Trade Unions, which has its headquarters in London.

This may be one reason for the overwhelming Labor victory in the recent British election.

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Conditions were so crowded backstage at Carnegie Hall that three ghosts in regular residence there moved across the street into a hotel that was merely filled to capacity. Out of what seemed like a hopeless tangle of high priced talent came that well-paced radio program you heard over the Columbia broadcasting system's network advertising its wares.

There must have been some 250 persons onstage and backstage during more than half of the hour-and-a-half proceedings. It was only in the latter part when some of the performers cleared out after doing their stints that matters improved.

Among the radio great who sat in a row of chairs just offstage waiting for a chance to perform were Helen Hayes, Phil Baker, James Melton, Claudia Morgan, Tom Howard, Earl Wrightson and Patrice Munsel. Miss Hayes was busy knitting a yellow turtleneck sweater.

It developed that the sweater is for her daughter, Mary, who is attending a Connecticut girls school "where they are trying to make the girls become young ladies and they want them covered all over." Miss Hayes said she had to knit the sweater because she hasn't been able to buy one that offers such complete coverage as a turtleneck.

Neither Miss Hayes nor her playwright husband, Charles MacArthur, is doing anything about directing Mary's steps toward the theater.

"But she'll probably wind up there somehow," the actress concluded.

The only performer to wear an evening gown was Bess Myerson, the brand new "Miss America," who obliged on the flute during the broadcast. The dress was green except around the bottom where it had been sweeping the floor.

Tenor James Melton congratulated Wrightson after the latter's singing chore, saying there was no doubt he was the best baritone in the house. Melton, who was kidding around with some of the pretty young things backstage, was asked if they weren't a bit out of his line since he is known to favor antiques.

"I only go for antiques when they're automobiles," he said, "Besides I'm only kidding; I'm married."

Tom Howard, looking as he usually does when he presides over "It Pays To Be Ignorant," reprimanded a young woman who expressed admiration for the "cuteness" of Melton's nose with the remark that personally he had always considered the singer's proboscis nothing but an overgrown pimple.

Phil Baker and Harry McNaughton, who used to be the character "bottle" on Baker's program of a decade ago, got to reminiscing about those old days and went into one of their old routines for their own amusement. McNaughton, who works on Howard's program now, is known as "The Scarf" because that's what he always wears instead of a tie.

The worst crowding was in a makeshift control room, made for four people. When the program ended, 13 people stumbled out of it, feeling their way through a dense cloud of cigaret smoke. One of them was the program's producer, Norman Corwin, who said he was going to take a vacation quick. He had been writing or rehearsing steadily for 24 hours and hadn't eaten in that time.

Getting to and from the microphones on stage occasionally presented quite a traffic

Role of Hero's Wife
Takes Tact, Patience

Mrs. Kitty Wainwright
Plays Part Beautifully

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

• WASHINGTON—Whenever I meet or hear about a Hero, I wonder if being the wife of a Hero isn't harder than being the Hero. In order to be a successful wife of a Hero, a woman must see the Fine Fellow as the Greatest Man alive. She must sit at his feet and at the same time "protect" him as if he were an infant and not yet out of swaddling clothes. She must remember only his most admirable qualities and his more magnificent moments. And while the multitudes cheer his husband's triumphs, she must forget those occasions upon which he happened to leave the ignition switch on and thus ran the family automobile battery down for three days in a row; or when he loses his temper when matches fail to light. These—plus a thousand little eccentricities.

In addition to other qualifications for the role of a Hero's wife, the Happy Little Woman must wear just the right clothes when on view in public. She must have the right kind of profile for the cameras. Manage to keep fresh the "welcome home" orchids, presented by some reception committee, despite torrid heat or drizzle. And, worst of all, manage to look pretty for the picture page and its larger-than-life-size shot bearing some such caption as: "Greeted by Wife With Loving Kiss."

Mrs. Jonathan Wainwright, Kitty for short, is a most satisfactory Hero's Wife. She really was a darling at her husband's press meetings. She's very pretty. She did wear the right clothes—though I could have wished for a hat smaller than her black straw sailor. It dropped and hid her attractive face. Her black and blue

An Intestinal Disturbance That Comes from Nerves

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

EVERY time there is a disturbance of the intestinal action, it does not necessarily mean that actual disease of the bowel is present, for often the bowel is just functioning or working in the wrong way. This condition is known as the irritable bowel syndrome.

According to Doctors Gustavus A. Peters and J. Arnold Bargen of Rochester, Minnesota, the underlying cause for the irritable bowel is a disorder of the nervous system. They think that this type of disturbance tends to run in families. Not only the large intestine, but the entire gastro-intestinal tract is affected, and is usually irritated or upset.

Circulatory Disturbance

In patients with irritable bowel syndrome, there are often signs of circulatory disturbances also, such as excessive sweating of the hands, cold, clammy hands, rapid beating of the heart, low blood pressure, and numbness and tingling in various parts of the body. Nervous fatigue helps to explain the occurrence of the irritable bowel syndrome, but other factors also enter into it, such as the abuse of laxative drugs, the too frequent use of enemas or injections into the lower bowel, certain foods to which the patient may be oversensitive, or lack of the normal digestive juices in the stomach.

Many Complaints

Patients with the irritable bowel syndrome have many complaints. They often find that they feel sick all over, or that they have stomach trouble, or are bilious. What all of these symptoms may amount to is that the patient is suffering from constipation, and has some pain or discomfort within the abdomen. He is usually tired and exhausted and has no energy or ambition.

Sometimes the pain in the abdomen is in the upper part, but more often in the lower end on the left side. There is constipation, often alternating with diarrhea. Frequently there are excessive amounts of mucus in the bowel movements. There may be belching, excessive gas formation and gurgling within the intestines.

Pain Relieved

The abdominal pain is often relieved when the bowels move. The pain is rarely severe enough to keep the patient awake at night.

The most important part of treatment of the irritable bowel is to dispel or quiet the patient's fears. The exact nature of the disorder must be explained to him. Then he must be given proper advice concerning diet, exercise, and rest.

The diet will, of course, vary with the symptoms present, and it is important that the patient take plenty of fluids, eat at regular times and, as a rule, avoid foods which are highly seasoned and too bulky. Certain drugs which quiet the nervous system, such as phenobarbital, may be prescribed by the doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. F.: What symptoms are produced by a cyst of the ovary?

Answer: A cyst of the ovary may be present without causing any symptoms. In other instances it may produce pain or pressure symptoms.

Users of electric current in Circleville will receive a total of $32,795 rebate on electric bills paid. The average amount per user is about $10.50.

Chester Blue of the Blue Furniture company announces the silk frock was smartly cut. Her pearl earrings were good. And her orchid hadn't as much as one brown spot on its violet leaves. She looked completely a lady and yet not too aloof for cheerful companionship.

When Mrs. Wainwright took her place at the right of her husband and faced several hundred curious reporters, taking notes violently, she was modest and composed. When her husband spoke affectionately of her, her manner was charming.

"My first great happiness on arriving home was seeing my beloved wife from whom I have been separated for four and a half years," said the man who had lived through horror and torture in a Japanese prison camp. Kitty Wainwright dropped her head. Perhaps she wore that large hat on purpose. But you could see the muscles of her neck twist as she gulped down her emotion. Then she reached into her purse. For a handkerchief, probably, to wipe the tears from her eyes. Then thought better of making a display of emotion. Closed the purse quickly. Swallowed hard and sat with hands clenched while the hero of Corregidor related a few of his experiences.

The general talks with both humility and pride of his share in the war. If he did feel any bitterness over his experience neither his manner nor tone showed resentment.

The Young Aeneas had an uneventful trek on his way back from Troy when compared with the World War II adventures of Jonathan Wainwright. I wonder if the Young Aeneas got himself a new suit as quickly as the general acquired that snappy bright uniform he has been wearing. The general's uniform seems a trifling large. But then the general is more than a trifling thin now. Thinner by many pounds than he was when he won the nickname "Skinny." The last one of his four stars drops down over the edge of his narrow shoulders. But his voice is strong and he holds his head high.

It is a nice change from some of the more bumptious heroes we have met lately. Heroes shouldn't look too well fed and too pleased with themselves. Not battle heroes whose triumphs have been made possible by the death and general torment of thousands of less lucky fighting men.

Skinner Wainwright is just my kind of war hero. No wonder Kitty was glad to have him come home.

Enriched white bread, oatmeal bread, pumpernickel (whole rye), rolls or biscuits made with whole wheat or enriched flour, and whole wheat crackers are important sources of energy, and they also give us iron, B vitamins and serve as protein-extenders. Other foods that give us these benefits are enriched white flour, whole corn meal, whole wheat and other whole grains, and cereals such as prepared cereals, whole grain, restored rolled oats and whole wheat.

When, in spite of all precautions, hot dishes, alcohol or such acids as fruit juices have left their mark on your prized mahogany furniture, buy a small quantity of rubbing oil at your paint store and rub. If the finish is varnish or lacquer, your chances of rubbing out the damage are good. If no success attends your efforts, however, it will usually be because the surface is shellac finish. Even then you may be able to rub out a very light ring, but if the mark is a deep one, and has cut through the protective film of the shellac, then rubbing will do no good. Professional refinishing is the only remedy.

Many stains in the refrigerator can be removed with hot, soapy water. Also try scouring a spot with baking soda or a very fine scouring powder. If the stain has entered the porcelain, you may remove it by rubbing it with half a cut lemon. After using soap in the refrigerator, rinse with a solution of baking soda, then rinse thoroughly with clear water.

School Health Examinations On In Pickaway County Schools

NINTH YEAR OF PUPIL CHECKS UNDER WAY NOW

Children Examined, School Facilities Tested By Health Officials

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, and Mrs. Helen Pickens, health nurse, Tuesday started their annual examination of pupils in the county schools.

The health officials have already completed the first part of the regular yearly school program of visits which is being conducted for the ninth year. Each school in the county has been inspected, water tested, sanitation, etc., inspected, check made for communicable diseases, and health charts left with teachers and request cards sent to parents for diphtheria immunization.

During the second trip, which starts at Walnut school Tuesday, a full day will be spent at each school. A complete physical examination will be given all first graders and newcomers to the school and members of the basketball squads. Pupils will be immunized against disease. A report of each examination is sent to the parents pointing out any defects found and suggesting that the child be taken to the family physician, dentist or eye specialist.

A third trip will be made to schools later at which time the health officials will check on recommendations made and make examinations of any children who were absent on previous visits to the school or who have entered the school since the earlier visit.

Dr. Blackburn said that the first visit had revealed a smaller amount of skin diseases than in any previous year.

The schedule of schools to be checked during the second visit is as follows:

September 18—Walnut township.

September 19—Madison township.

September 19—Duvall.

September 20—South Bloomfield.

September 24—New Holland.

September 26—Atlanta.

October 1—Williamsport.

October 3—Jackson township.

October 5—Monroe township.

October 8—Derby.

October 10—Darbyville.

October 12—Scioto township.

October 15—Saltcreek township.

October 15—Tarlton.

October 17—Ashville.

October 19—Washington township.

October 22—Pickaway township.

October 24—Wayne township.

PRICE CEILINGS ON SOME DRINKS LIFTED BY OPA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Beginning next Monday hotels, restaurants and taverns can charge as much as they please for imported wines and liquors other than whiskey sold to be drunk on the premises.

However, that's only if they're sold by the bottle or in "straight" drinks. If they're sold in mixed drinks price ceilings still hold.

This latest suspension of price ceilings by the office of price administration follows the agency's removal last month of ceilings on the same imported drinks when sold in bulk or bottle to be consumed off the premises.

Ceiling prices still hold for imported whiskey.

The OPA pointed out that most imported liquors other than whiskey now are selling below ceiling prices. Other imports are expected to resume shortly from liberated countries such as France, the agency said, adding that establishing and administering new ceilings would be "out of proportion" to any stabilization benefits.

The initial use of incendiaries by aircraft occurred during the German Zeppelin raid on London in 1915, when one airship dropped 90 fire bombs.

STOCK OWNED BY ELLIOTT SAID UPPED IN VALUE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Some house ways and means committee members believe that John Hartford, Atlantic and Pacific Tea company president, would have been wise to retain the Texas radio stock he surrendered in settling a loan made to Elliott in 1939.

By the accounts of various members, Hartford accepted 2,000 shares or more of stock in Elliott's Texas radio chain venture as security. He returned the stock, it was said, when the loan was settled through the mediation of then secretary of commerce Jesse Jones.

Committee members said the late President Roosevelt had sent the stock to Mrs. Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, Elliott's former wife, according to a letter submitted to the committee yesterday.

Two members said Elliott had told treasury investigators that 400 shares of the stock had been used to settle a $40,000 note in 1944. One of them said that in response to a direct question Elliott had said the stock was still worth $100 a share. They said there was no other testimony bearing on the recent value of the stock but they believed it had depreciated in value since 1942.

The welfare conferences said messages eulogizing Ryan were coming in from all parts of the country. They included expressions from President Truman, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Carleton J. H. Hayes, former U. S. ambassador to Spain, and former secretary of labor Frances Perkins.

President Truman's message said Ryan's writings and speeches as an economist and sociologist "were enlightened by sound common sense and a high appreciation of moral and ethical values."

"This was particularly true when he dealt with the problem of labor and the moral implications of a living wage," the President added.

FINAL RITES FOR MSGR. RYAN SET FOR WEDNESDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Solemn high mass will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. EWT at St. Matthew's cathedral here for the late Msgr. John A. Ryan, former director of social action for the national Catholic welfare conference.

Officiating at the mass will be the Rev. Paul F. Tanner, assistant general secretary of the conference. Msgr. Ryan's funeral will be held in St. Paul, Minn., where he died two days ago.

MAKERS WOULD HOLD UP NYLONS

Hosiery Industry Favors Delay Until All Stores Have A Supply

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Nylon hosiery mills are speeding up production and, according to a war production board official, should have 36,000,000 pairs ready for distribution by Dec. 1.

But there's some talk in the industry about holding the stockings off retail counters until the first business day of January in order to get a wider and more orderly distribution.

A spokesman for WPB's office of civilian requirements told the United Press today that he could see no reason why nylon stockings shouldn't be on general sale by Christmas. The 36,000,000 pairs constitute a good average pre-war month's supply but they ought to be enough for a pair to each interested woman.

He said that some nylon hosiery makers are trying to get the OCR to bind the industry to a series of get-on-your-mark-get-set-go dates for the distribution and sale of the stockings, but the agency isn't having any part of it.

"It's been and still is the policy of WPB not to withhold goods from the market," the spokesman said.

However, he added, if the industry voluntarily agrees to a uniform distribution system, WPB won't object because it doesn't feel that nylon hose is a sufficiently important factor in affecting the nation's economic machinery.

The chances are, industry sources said, that it will be difficult if not impossible to establish commerce committee.

Wheeler said he would call a committee meeting in a few days and predicted prompt approval of the house-passed bill to return to standard time starting September 30.

Wheeler said the senate would consider the house-approved bill rather than the repealer already introduced in the senate by Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry, R., Neb.

Wherry agreed to the program in the interest of speedy repeal.

WOMEN'S STORE PAYS PENALTY FOR OVERCHARGE

The Cincinnati district Office of Price Administration has advised the Columbus district office that the filing of a complaint and consent decree in the U. S. District Court at Cincinnati last Friday against Daniel Spiegel and "Spiegel Stores," Cincinnati, had settled claims for overcharges at a voluntary distribution arrangement.

Hosiery manufacturers meet with Office of Price Administration officials today to discuss the prices they will charge for nylons. Similar meetings are scheduled for tomorrow with wholesalers and retailers.

The OPA hasn't yet made up its mind about the price of nylon stockings. The industry, on the other hand, has indicated it would prefer prices "not less than" those charged before the war. Retail ceilings on pre-war nylon hose range from $1.55 to $2.50 a pair. Hosiery mills are estimated to be still holding about 36,000 pairs of nylon stockings made prior to the halting of production early in 1942.

STOCK OWNED BY ELLIOTT SAID UPPED IN VALUE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Some house ways and means committee members believe that John Hartford, Atlantic and Pacific Tea company president, would have been wise to retain the Texas radio stock he surrendered in settling a loan made to Elliott Roosevelt.

They understood that the stock had increased in value since 1942 when Hartford accepted $4,000 for writing off a $200,000 loan he made to Elliott in 1939.

By the accounts of various members, Hartford accepted 2,000 shares or more of stock in Elliott's Texas radio chain venture as security. He returned the stock, it was said, when the loan was settled through the mediation of then secretary of commerce Jesse Jones.

Committee members said the late President Roosevelt had sent the stock to Mrs. Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, Elliott's former wife, according to a letter submitted to the committee yesterday.

Two members said Elliott had told treasury investigators that 400 shares of the stock had been used to settle a $40,000 note in 1944. One of them said that in response to a direct question Elliott had said the stock was then worth $100 a share. They said there was no other testimony bearing on the recent value of the stock but they believed it had depreciated in value since 1942.

Stock formerly owned by Elliott was said to be held now by the former Mrs. Roosevelt and a trust fund established for their children.

The house committee is now studying the conclusions of the bureau of internal revenue in connection with the case. Spokesmen for the bureau already have advised the committee that they considered Hartford was entitled to claim the $196,000 loss as a bad debt for tax deduction purposes.
